Executive summary

Recorded won revenue is $10,005,534 across 4,238 won deals, with an overall win rate of 63.15% and average sales per won deal of $2,360.91. Average weeks to close is 7.40. Separately, estimated open-pipeline list price is $3,360,822 across 2,089 open opportunities; 333 open opportunities are unpriced and excluded from that estimate. This is not a probability-weighted forecast. Team win rates are tightly clustered: Summer Sewald 64.34% and Cara Losch 64.43% are above the overall win rate, while Melvin Marxen 62.20% and Rocco Neubert 62.08% are below. Product conversion is led by MG Special 64.84% and GTX Plus Pro 64.30%; GTXPro leads product revenue at $3,510,578. Quarterly close revenue softened after 2017-Q2, and new opportunities fell sharply in 2017-Q4. Data caveats: 500 invalid engage dates and 333 unpriced open opportunities; GTK 500 and some agent results have small samples.

> New opportunities: 8,800. Open opportunities: 2,089. Estimated open-pipeline list price: $3,360,822. Unpriced open opportunities: 333. Won deals: 4,238. Closed deals: 6,711. Overall win rate: 63.15%.

333 open opportunities have no exact product list-price match.

500 opportunities have invalid or missing engage dates.

Key findings

How is each sales team performing compared to the rest?

By manager, Summer Sewald has a 64.34% win rate and Cara Losch has 64.43%, both above the overall 63.15%. Melvin Marxen is at 62.20% and Rocco Neubert at 62.08%, both below overall. Melvin Marxen has the highest won revenue at $2,251,930, followed by Summer Sewald at $1,964,750 and Rocco Neubert at $1,960,545. By region, West leads revenue at $3,568,647 with a 63.94% win rate; Central has the most opportunities at 3,512 and revenue of $3,346,293 with a 62.56% win rate; East has revenue of $3,090,594 with a 63.02% win rate.

Are any sales agents lagging behind?

Overall win rate is 63.15%. Agents below overall include Lajuana Vencill 54.98%, Markita Hansen 57.27%, Donn Cantrell 57.45%, Gladys Colclough 58.19%, Niesha Huffines 60.00%, Daniell Hammack 60.96%, Garret Kinder 60.98%, Anna Snelling 61.90%, Zane Levy 61.69%, Cassey Cress 62.45%, Kary Hendrixson 62.39%, Marty Freudenburg 62.89%, and Darcel Schlecht 63.11%. Agents at or above overall include Hayden Neloms 70.39%, Maureen Marcano 69.95%, Wilburn Farren 69.62%, Cecily Lampkin 66.88%, Versie Hillebrand 66.67%, Moses Frase 66.15%, Boris Faz 66.01%, James Ascencio 65.53%, Corliss Cosme 65.50%, Rosalina Dieter 65.45%, Reed Clapper 65.40%, Jonathan Berthelot 64.77%, Rosie Papadopoulos 64.46%, Kami Bicknell 63.97%, Vicki Laflamme 63.69%, Elease Gluck 63.49%, and Violet Mclelland 63.21%. Darcel Schlecht has the highest won revenue at $1,153,214. Sample sizes vary; interpret lower-volume agents with caution.

Are there any quarter-over-quarter trends?

By close quarter, 2017-Q1 had 531 won deals, $1,134,672 won revenue, and an 82.07% win rate. 2017-Q2 won revenue rose to $3,086,111 with 1,254 won deals and a 61.71% win rate; QoQ revenue change was +171.98%. 2017-Q3 revenue was $2,982,255 with 1,257 won deals and a 61.41% win rate; QoQ change was -3.37%. 2017-Q4 revenue was $2,802,496 with 1,196 won deals and a 60.25% win rate; QoQ change was -6.03%. New opportunities by engage quarter: 2016-Q4 358; 2017-Q1 1,619 (+352.23%); 2017-Q2 2,388 (+47.50%); 2017-Q3 2,770 (+16.00%); 2017-Q4 1,165 (-57.94%).

Do any products have better win rates?

Product win rates: MG Special 64.84%, GTX Plus Pro 64.30%, GTX Basic 63.72%, GTXPro 63.56%, GTX Plus Basic 62.13%, MG Advanced 60.33%, and GTK 500 60.00%. GTK 500 has only 40 opportunities and 25 closed deals, so its rate is based on a small sample. GTXPro has the highest won revenue at $3,510,578, followed by GTX Plus Pro at $2,629,651 and MG Advanced at $2,216,387. MG Special has the highest win rate but lower won revenue at $43,768. MG Advanced is below the overall win rate despite high revenue.

Recommendations

- Use recorded won revenue and estimated open-pipeline list price separately; do not present probability-weighted forecasts because no opportunity probability is available.
- Coach agents with lower win rates and sufficient sample sizes, such as Lajuana Vencill, Markita Hansen, Donn Cantrell, and Gladys Colclough, and review deal-level conversion drivers.
- Study practices from higher win-rate agents such as Hayden Neloms, Maureen Marcano, and Wilburn Farren, while noting that some agent samples are smaller.
- Investigate the 2017-Q4 drop in new opportunities and the softening close revenue and win rate after 2017-Q2 to identify pipeline generation and close-execution gaps.
- Prioritize high-revenue products GTXPro and GTX Plus Pro, and assess why MG Advanced has high revenue but a below-overall win rate.
- Evaluate MG Special for conversion strength versus low revenue, including pricing, upsell, or product-mix opportunities.
- Target high-performing sectors such as retail, technolgy, software, and marketing, and review finance and medical conversion performance.
- Protect and expand top accounts Kan-code, Konex, Condax, Cheers, and Hottechi, especially in software, technolgy, medical, and entertainment.
- Improve data quality by addressing 500 invalid engage dates and 333 unpriced open opportunities so reporting and pipeline estimates are more complete.
- Treat GTK 500 and lower-volume agent results as small samples and avoid overgeneralizing from them.

Data notes

- Total sales and average sales use recorded close values for won deals.
- Win rates use closed won/lost deals; open opportunities are excluded.
- Quarterly sales use close date; new opportunities use engage date.
- Potential to close is an exact product-list-price estimate, not booked revenue or a probability-weighted forecast.
- Agent comparisons with fewer than five closed deals are marked as an insufficient sample.
